COLBY CHARGES, BOLSHEVISTS AND HARDING'S VIEWS ARE IN ACCORD

Secretary Of State Declares Republican Candidate Has Attitude Of Soviet

G. O. P. REJECTS DEBATE

Chairman New Declares Plan Of Cox Supporters For Discussion Is Absurd

(Reuter's Service)
Chicago, October 16.—Mr. Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, in the course of a speech here cited Bolshevist speeches which, he affirmed, were on parallel lines to Senator Harding's attitude on the League of Nations.

He read what he said were translations of some speeches made at a Bolshevist meeting at the Third International in Moscow. He declared that this organization aimed to overthrow democratic government, was opposed to the League of Nations, and was to a large extent in sympathy with Senator Harding's proposal for an association of some sort or other.

SPREAD DISORDER

Mr. Colby declared that the Republic in efforts to sacrifice the League of Nations to partisanship had been a distinct contribution to the spread of disorder, and had arrested the healing processes of peace.

Cleveland, October 15.—Governor Cox, replying to Senator Harding's recent speech at Indianapolis, charged the Republic candidate with attempting to "wiggle himself into the presidency" and of "somersaulting, wiggling and wobbling" in dealing with the League of Nations. He said the Indianapolis speech was an appeal to advocates of the League of Nations after his rejection of the League at Des Moines.

He pictured Senator Harding leaving his dugout, crying Kamerad to the hosts of peace.

Governor Cox made five speeches here today, thereby bringing his days' campaign in Ohio to a close.

WILL NOT DEBATE

New York, October 16.—The Republican party managers on board Senator Harding's train state that Senator Harding will not accept Governor Cox's challenge to debate the League of Nations.

Senator New, chairman of the Republican speakers' bureau, also said that he would not consider these absurd proposals.

Thirty-one prominent men who have advocated some form of international agreement have issued an announcement that they intend to support Senator Harding.

The signatories include Mr. Elihu Root, Mr. Hoover, Mr. George W. Wickersham, ex-Attorney-General, Mr. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University, and Mr. Henry Thatt, brother of the ex-President.

Mr. Hughes says the question is not whether the United States shall join an association of nations, but whether it shall join under the exact provisions which President Wilson negotiated, many of which are objectionable to any American.

CHARGES SECRET DIPLOMACY

Louisville, October 16.—Senator Harding, speaking on the borderland of the "Soft South," attacked the attitude of the Administration to foreign trade, and especially President Wilson's policies in regard to Mexico and the League of Nations.

He accused the President of secret diplomacy, and with having kept American business men from learning trade opportunities abroad.

He declared that the State and Commerce Departments must be reorganized, so as to give more active aid in developing commerce.

He stigmatized the State Department as representing the lowest possible ebb of government service in building up foreign trade.

The candidate declared that a completely new policy was necessary if America was to take its place in international trade.

CONSORTIUM WILL NOT SEEK SPECIAL ADVANTAGE HERE

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 16.—The delegates to the Consortium Conference have inserted in the agreement a clause defining the attitude of the Consortium towards China. This stated that they believed that Chinese interests would best be served by the co-operative action of the various national banking groups assisting the Chinese Government to obtain capital.

It added that the bankers undertook the financing of the country at the request of their Government, and did not desire to have any special advantage or to exercise domination.

New York, Oct. 13 (delayed).—Speaking at the first business meeting of the bankers and international representatives attending the Chinese Consortium Conference, Mr. Thomas Lamont said that some Americans favored the League of Nations and others a League of Nations and there was a vast difference between the definite and indefinite articles.

He assured America's friends in England, France and Japan that America was strong for the arms of peace and desired to enter into some association to support her gallant Allies in preventing future catastrophes.

Famine Relief Body Hears American Minister's Views; May Make Change In Policy

Proposal To Send All Funds To Peking Committee Is Discussed

Mr. Charles R. Crane, American Minister to Peking, who is in Shanghai with Mrs. Crane to meet members of his family who are arriving from San Francisco attended yesterday's meeting of the Shanghai Famine Relief Committee and he took the occasion to tell those present that he and his colleagues of the Diplomatic Corps for the time had laid aside all ordinary matters—that they had forgotten questions of politics and diplomacy to concentrate all attention upon the famine sweeping the northern provinces.

Based largely upon information concerning famine relief work that Mr. Crane brought from Peking and presented to members of the committee in an informal address the question of altering the working policy of the Shanghai famine relief organization was brought up and discussed at some length. In line with views of the American Minister, Bishop F. R. Graves of the committee proposed that the Chairman of the Committee, Mr. Chu Pao-sen, send a telegram to the Peking Central Famine Relief Committee asking that advice be given to the Shanghai body concerning how it would be best to proceed.

As a suggestion Mr. Crane had said that it might be well for the Shanghai organization to select some definite area in the famine district, take charge of the relief work in this district and be responsible for it, or if it did not wish to select a district itself it might ask the Peking committee to assign to it a district.

This suggestion brought forth a question from Mr. W. A. B. Nichols of the American Red Cross Committee of Shanghai who asked Mr. Crane if the best course for the Shanghai body to follow would not be to send all its funds directly to the Peking organization.

Mr. Nichols seconded Bishop Graves' motion which was adopted after considerable discussion in which some opposition developed to the idea of subordinating the work here to that of the Peking body. Whether this will be done, or whether the Shanghai relief body will take over a given area in the famine district or whether the present course of extending aid wherever it seems best in various areas of the famine belt will be continued are questions that are to come up again at the committee's next meeting next Monday. By that time a reply will have been received from the telegram that is to be sent to Peking.

MINISTER PRAISES WORK

In his address Mr. Crane said he had seen much of the work of preparation that has been proceeding in Peking to cope with the famine and he explained that the various agencies that have been at work at the capital have been seeking to unify the work as much as possible.

Describing this work he said that all the various organizations of the foreign communities each had named two delegates as members of the central committee that had been formed. In naming these he said it had been the purpose in each case to name one man who knew China and one man of executive ability.

Mr. Crane spoke in the terms of highest praise of the membership of the central committee, particularly of its Chairman, Dr. G. D. Gray of the British Legation who, he said, is trusted and esteemed generally by foreigners and Chinese alike.

Doctor Gray, he went on, had spent 17 years in China and had extensive experience in dealing with national disasters. In this connection he said Doctor Gray had been active in the relief work of the famine that followed the flood of three years ago when he had proved fully his administrative powers.

Mr. Crane said the Peking committee some time ago began the active work of bringing aid to the starving Chinese, saving that to the south of the capital seed to plant some 17,000 mow of land had been supplied. The same system followed in the famine that

No taxes will be levied on grain being transported to the famine areas for three months.

JAPAN TO SEEK NEW TREATY ON U. S. LAND LAW

California Measure Almost Sure Of Adoption Peers Told By Minister

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, October 16.—Mr. Hanbary, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, in an address to the Peers is quoted by the Kokumin as saying that in spite of the friendly attitude of the State Department, the situation in America precluded all hope of preventing the passage of the California land law, while an appeal to the Supreme Court or a protest based on Treaty might lead to a narrow interpretation of the texts which would probably be unfavorable to Japan. Therefore, the Vice-Minister is reported to have continued, the solution lies in the adoption of a new treaty, with a view to the maintenance of the rights and interests acquired by Japanese in America.

Although such a treaty must run the gauntlet of the Senate, Mr. Hanbary pointed out, there would be no consideration of it until the election fever was past, when calm consideration could be relied on.

Mr. Hanbary is reported to have added that "the present virulence of anti-Japanism" was probably due to the anxiety caused by Japan's request for racial equality at Versailles.

Trainmen Call Meeting For October 20 To Decide Attitude Of Organisation Towards Present Coal Crisis

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 17.—It is reported from London that the strike of coal miners started at midnight on Saturday in all collieries. The night shift came to the surface, the men leaving the pits carrying their tools, and the shift which should have followed did not put in appearance.

Mr. Lloyd George has issued through the press a message to the public, in which he declares that he has not the least doubt as to the issue of the strike, and urges that the nation should resist with all its might.

It is announced that volunteers of all classes have flocked to the Government offices to place themselves at the disposal of the Government, or to offer their motor-cars in order to ensure the maintenance of food supplies and other public services.

London, October 16.—The Executive of the National Union of Railwaymen held a meeting this morning, and subsequently issued a statement announcing that a special conference of railway delegates would be held on October 20 to consider the coal crisis.

The statement added:

"The Executive has given instructions to branches, pointing out what a serious position would occur if the miners were to be defeated, and to bear this in mind in coming to a decision, and be prepared to act at once under instructions they may receive as the result of the delegate meeting."

MINERS STAND PAT

London, October 16.—The Miners' Conference has decided, in view of the unsatisfactory reply made by the Government, that the districts shall be informed by telegram that the only course is to cease work tomorrow.

The decision of the Miners' Conference has created a very grave situation although mediation proposals by other trade-union leaders, who are anxious that there shall not be a strike, are still regarded as probable.

It has already been announced that the export of coal is officially prohibited. It is unofficially stated that the stocks of coal in hand will suffice for three months but rigid economy will be essential.

An important question relates to the attitude of the railwaymen. It is stated that the possibility of their striking simultaneously with the miners is viewed with grave concern in Government circles.

REDUCED TRAIN SERVICE
The Ministry of Transport announces that, in the event of a coal strike, after an interval of two or three days in order to allow people, absent from their homes, to reach them, passenger services will be reduced by 10 to 20 percent. Suburban services, workmen's train and traffic dealing with perishable foodstuffs and petrol will not be interfered with but all other traffic will be automatically reduced as the shortage of coal is felt.

The Prince of Wales' visit to the City on October 28, has been postponed owing to the strike.

The Food Ministry states that, if the strike is confined to the miners, the country's food supplies will be fully looked after but, if it extends to other industries, plans, which have been drawn up for some time, will be put into operation.

Road transport cannot at present take the place of the railways but the public may be assured that adequate supplies will be maintained throughout the country.

It may be necessary to reintroduce rationing and in any case the sugar ration will be halved as soon as the strike begins.

OFFICIAL RESTRICTIONS
The first official measure in connection with the coal war was taken today by the Secretary of Mines who has issued a declaration that a state of emergency exists as from 1 a.m. tomorrow.

Numerous restrictions in the use of coal are laid down, including the prohibition of display lighting outside premises and limiting the supply of coal to one hundred-weight per household per week.

RAILWAY LEADER FOR PEACE
London, October 16.—Mr. J. H. Thomas, M. P., the railwaymen's leader, who has just returned from a visit to Prague, this afternoon made a magnificent speech at Cricklewood, in which he pointed out that the miners' strike came at a time when the financial, economic and social position of the country was never worse.

He emphasized that those people who assumed that the credit of Great Britain was of no importance to the working classes did not know that no nation was so dependent upon credit as Great Britain, and he affirmed that no section of people would suffer more

General Chi Notices Peking That He Will Not Accept Permanent Appointment

General Chi Chih-yuan, who became acting tuchun of Kiangsu after the death of Li Shun, has telegraphed to Peking that he cannot accept the post of Tuchun of the Province.

Influential representatives of Kiangsu are persistently calling on the president and the premier advocating the abolition of the tuchunship in this province. In other places meetings are being held to oppose several others who seek the post.

Among the aspirants are General Wang Chan-yuan of Hupei, General Wang Shih-chien of the premier himself. Chang Hsueh is reported to be active in approaching the administration for the position.

Residents in Chekiang are also agitating for the abolition of the tuchun in their province. General Lu Yung-shiang, is the present Tuchun.

Peking, Oct. 18.—A conference is being held at Paoingfu between Generals Tsao Kun and Wu Peifu and Tien Wen-lieh, with regard to the successor to General Li Shun and other matters, the outcome of which, Chinese circles believe, will be important.

from the absence of credit than the workers.

He expressed thankfulness that the door was still left open by Mr. Lloyd George, and declared that it was the duty of all trades unionists to strive for a peaceful settlement.

PREMIER ISSUES STATEMENT

Mr. Lloyd George has issued a message to the nation, setting forth the Government's position regarding the coal strike. The message reads as follows:

"The nation is confronted with a coal strike. The Government has made every effort, consistent with its duty as trustees for the people, to avert this calamity.

"The proposals of the Government are supported by many of the most responsible leaders of the Miners' Federation, and are regarded by all sections of the people as fair and reasonable.

ARBITRATION REFUSED

"The Government has offered to submit the miners' claim for an increase in wages to an impartial tribunal and abide by the result. This offer the miners refused.

"The Government offered to give the increase asked for if the miners would restore the present low production of coal to the figures of the early part of the present year. This, too, the miners refused, against the advice of some of their most experienced leaders. They are attempting now to gain their ends by force.

"The nation must and will resist such an attack with all its strength, and there can be no doubt as to the issue."

"The Premier proceeds to emphasise that the supplies of coal for public services are sufficient, and that there should be no cessation of employment until this can no longer be avoided.

PEOPLE MUST BE CALM

He urges people to remain calm, and to deal with emergencies as they arise.

"No one," he says in conclusion, "need underrate the damage the strike will do, but no one should be dismayed. We have been through much more difficult times. With steady purpose and determination to do justice, the nation will overcome all its difficulties."

Simultaneously with the foregoing, the Miners' Federation issued a statement of its case. It declares that the miners have been forced into the strike because of the consistently unyielding attitude of the Government in the face of reasonable claims which have left them without any honorable alternative.

FEDERATION REPLY

The Federation emphasises that they allowed ample time for negotiations, and that they modified their claims in the interests of peace, and twice agreed to the suspension of strike notices.

The statement contends that the Federation's record throughout has been one of studious moderation and of anxiety to take any possible step to avoid a stoppage of work.

The statement explains the refusal to refer wage questions to a tribunal as being due to the treatment meted out by the Government in connection with the Sankey Commission.

The Federation accuse the Government of declining to give effect to the recommendations of the majority of the Commission, after pledging itself to do so in order to avert a crisis.

URGES COMPROMISE

London, Oct. 18.—Mr. John Clynes, M.P., President of the National Union of General Workers, in an interview, suggested that the Government and the miners should come to a compromise regarding the wage question, as he declared, the country and workers were never in a less fit condition for a prolonged industrial struggle.

Mr. Clynes' idea is that the miners should get an extra shilling per shift immediately, leaving the question of the other shilling which they claim to the consideration of a tribunal which both sides agree is necessary.

BLAST FURNACES CLOSE

Coincident with the outbreak of the strike in Great Britain, Reuters' Berlin correspondent reports the publication of an appeal, apparently addressed to the German Government by three industrial magnates, one of whom is Herr Stinnes.

This document announces the closing down of a number of blast furnaces, and urgently requests the Government—"in view of the superabundance of coal and coke in France"—to take steps to retain sufficient coal and coke in Germany to prevent the collapse of industry.

Fifth Anniversary Of Nantao Institute Observed Saturday

The fifth anniversary of the founding of Nantao Christian Institute was observed at the hall of the Fire Association Building, South Gate, Saturday evening, over 800 attended.

Mr. Zee Vee-wai, President of the Board of Directors, acted as chairman of the meeting. The principal address of the evening was made by Dr. P. W. Kuo, President of Government Teachers College at Nanking. Dr. Kuo felicitated the workers in the Institute on the number and quality of its upwards of a thousand members who are taking part in its varied activities. He emphasised and commended the fact that the Institute aims to be equally of service to the women of the community as well as the men, giving women a place on its governing board, its staff and in its general program of activities.

Other features which appealed to Dr. Kuo were the friendly working together of Christians and non-Christians in all kinds of social service, and the fine patriotism of an organization controlled by Chinese and yet enlisting the experience and friendly aid of foreign friends in Shanghai and America.

Rev. H. C. Lee gave an inspiring retrospect of the work of the past five years, pointing out the very humble beginning of the work, and the slow response at first—afterwards increasing year by year. Mr. D. T. Wang, Assistant General Secretary of the Institute, made an eloquent appeal for a "better Nantao," outlining some of the methods by which the Institute is attacking problems of unemployment, gambling, unsanitary conditions, etc.

The Shanghai Chorists, conducted by Miss Myra Olive, sang two beautifully rendered choruses—the "Te Deum" and "The Lord is My Shepherd." Miss Eling Tong played a piano solo. The band of the Shanghai Orphanage played. Moving pictures illustrative of social service methods and requirements were shown.

PIECE GOODS MEN MAY CLOSE DOORS

Chinese piece goods importers who assert that they face losses of upwards of a million taels, spelling bankruptcy for a number of them, having failed first to obtain consideration from the American and British Chambers of Commerce and recently refused aid from foreign piece goods dealers, now threaten to go out of business altogether as an act of reprisal.

The Chinese importers sought to obtain extension of time on delivery of certain orders and cancellation of orders that were placed after January 1 last. The British and American Chambers of Commerce declined to give aid.

Within the past few days the plight of the Chinese importers was presented to foreign piece goods men and among other things the foreign dealers were asked to share losses with the Chinese. It was urged that these losses should be borne in the proportion of one-third by the Chinese importers, one-third by the foreign dealers, and a third by the manufacturers.

The foreign dealers refused this proposal with the result that the organization of the Chinese importers now is considering quitting business. It is expected that a decision may be reached this week.

Immense Oil Interests Begin Battle In France

(Reuters' Service)

Paris, October 15.—According to the newspapers, the French Administration is evolving a vast program for ensuring that France shall be abundantly supplied with petroleum, and for developing the national production of petroleum.

Le Matin, in announcing the arrival in Paris of the President of the leading American petroleum trust, says that the company intends to organize sales in France on a large scale.

The immediate consequence of this measure, in the paper's opinion, will be a substantial reduction in the price of oil, which is now almost prohibitive.

The news caused a sensation on the Oil Market and the Bourse, where there were extraordinary fluctuations. Royal Dutch dropping 400 francs and Shell 8 points.

It is generally felt that this is the beginning of a struggle between the two very powerful oil groups in consequence of the failure of private negotiations.

Defense Rests Case In Action
Against Fearon, Daniel
And Co.

The $150,000 breach of contract case brought against Fearon, Daniel and Co. by Mr. F. R. Hanish, former assistant manager of the firm, was concluded in the United States Court for China yesterday morning after further testimony had been heard.

"Inasmuch as the defendant admits the existence of the contract and the question simmers down to whether or not under the contract there was sufficient ground for dismissal, the burden of proof rests on the defense," said Judge C. S. Lingling after Mr. R. T. Bryan had announced that the defense rested its case. "Therefore the defense must prepare the first brief. Two weeks' time will be allotted from the receipt of the transcript and two weeks more for the plaintiff to reply."

The court remarked that the contract under consideration was unusual in that there was no provision for dismissal.

The final testimony heard yesterday was given by Mr. Hanish, principally with regard to certain quotations sent the home office by the plaintiff, and by Mr. J. J. Brennan, Mr. Hopkins, Mr. H. F. Kay and other members of the staff.

Passengers had breakfast in London on August 25, completed a morning's business, left by the special train for Liverpool and six days later had dinner in Montreal. The ship carried a full complement of passengers, consisting of 332 first class, 409 second class and 707 third class, destined for points throughout Canada and the United States and also for a number of points in the Orient.

START DRIVE FOR
Y.W.C.A. FUND TODAY
$13,000 REQUIRED

A luncheon is being given at Sincere's today as a means of bringing together members of four Chinese and two foreign teams for the launching of the $13,000 campaign for current expenses to be held by the Young Women's Christian Association from October 20 to November 6.

Initial gifts made to the campaign within the last few days will be made public at this time, and as many of the large firms as well as individual subscribers have been generous in their endorsement of this piece of work in the interests of Chinese women and girls, the announcement is anticipated with keen interest.

At the campaign headquarters yesterday, 11a Quinsan Road, much encouragement was felt regarding the substantial growth the Young Women's Christian Association is achieving in China. Boats arriving in the past week have brought news of two notable instances of the desire of the giving public in the home countries to continue underwriting the permanent equipment of Association activities in this country while all funds for current expenses are the share of the citizens of China itself.

Word has come of the gift by Mrs. Beth Milliken of New York City of $10,000 gold towards the erection of a building for the Young Women's Christian Association of Canton. The Canton Association is one of the most progressive of the ten city centers established by the National Committee, which is located here in Shanghai, 61 Range Road.

Sailor Discharged
In Assault Case

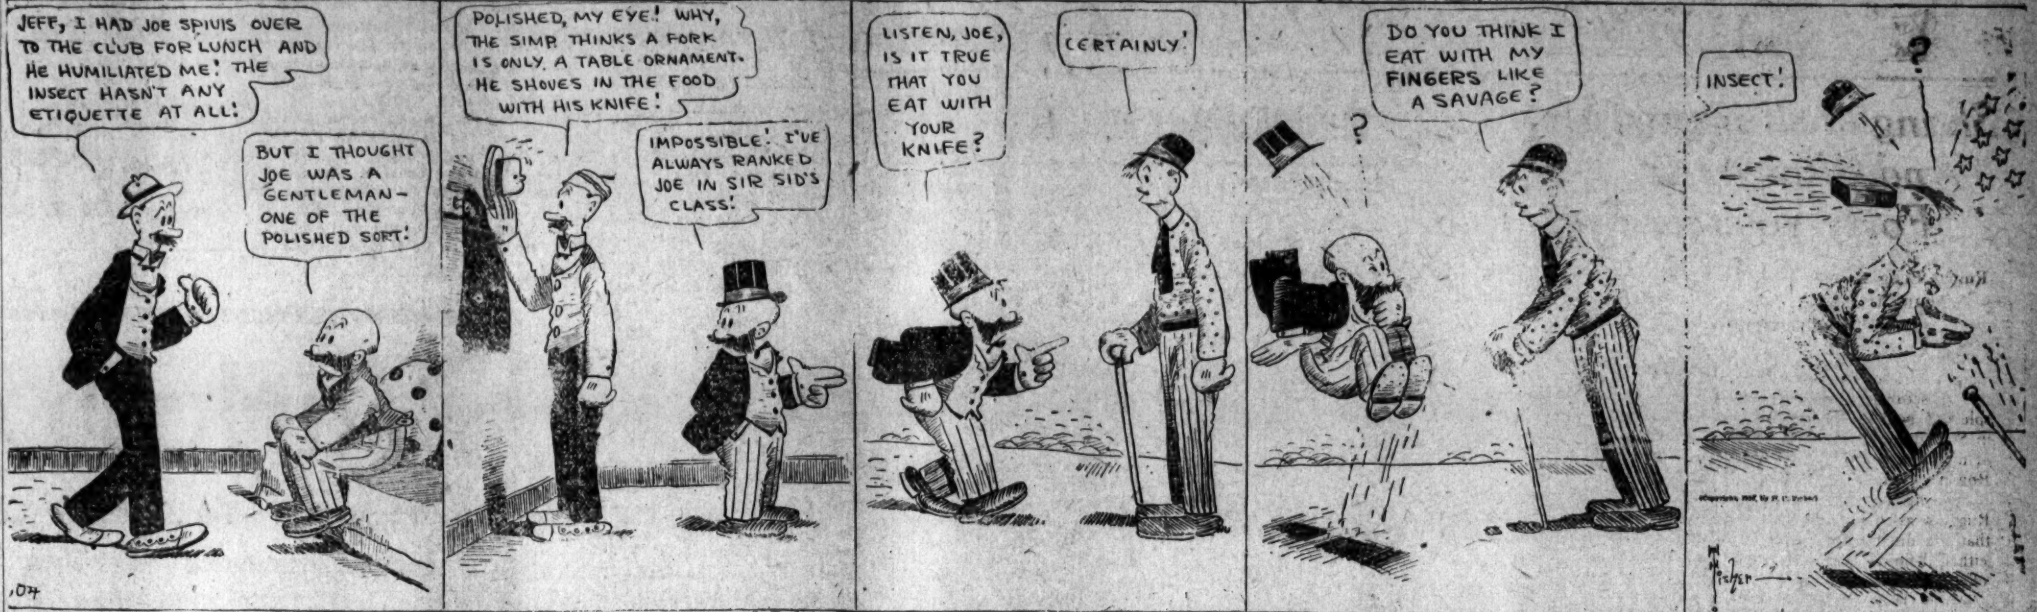

P. F. Turner, a sailor from the U.S.S. Huron, appeared before United States Commissioner P. J. Schull yesterday morning on the charge of assaulting a Chinese clerk in a grocery store on Hanbury Road last Friday night. The complainant stated that on the evening in question four sailors entered the store and began eating some chestnuts and walnuts which were in boxes on the counter, that when they had finished they started to walk out with the scales and scale weights and that when he protested the defendant hurled one of the weights at him, striking him on the forehead. He had the sailor arrested. Turner pleaded not guilty and stated that another sailor, named C. P. Jarvis had struck the clerk with the weight. Jarvis came forward and admitted striking the Chinese but said that the blow was accidental, the Commissioner thereupon dismissing the charge against Turner and stating that a new charge would have to be brought before the matter could be taken up again.

Shanghai Ruggerers Meet And Plan Active Season; Forty Answer First Call

Rugby League May Be Re-Formed; Games With Warship Teams In Prospect; Interport Matches With Tientsin And Hongkong May Be Arranged

By Dudley Burrows

A serious, "last-stand" effort to rehabilitate and revitalise the splendid game of Rugby football, in Shanghai and its environs, was launched last evening at a meeting of the Shanghai Rugby Football Club, held in the rooms of the Roving Club, with President A. W. Burkill in the chair.

In his opening remarks, addressed to a gathering of some 50 Ruggerers assembled for the meeting, President Burkill pointed out that the disciples of the game living in the Settlement had best either definitely establish Rugby on a firm footing or give up all efforts in that direction.

"There is no use," the president said, "in going on from season to season in a half-hearted, half-efficient way. Either we want Rugby in Shanghai or we do not. Let us settle the question and be done with it."

Mr. Burkill drew attention to some of the faults of the past, when playing members would promise to show up for games and then fail, at the last moment, to put in an appearance. He said that any attempts to keep Rugby going on this basis were sure to result in failure.

CANVASS FOR PLAYERS

Mr. Percy Fowler, taking the floor at the conclusion of Mr. Burkill's remarks, endorsed the latter's stand and urged that a committee be formed as soon as possible to canvass the community and find out just how many Rugby players were available for the coming season.

The speaker pointed out that there should be an immediate effort to get together at least four or five teams, declaring that public interest (and that of the players, too) soon waned when "Black" was playing "White" day after day.

A call was then made from the chair asking that all those who intended to actually play during the season would stand up and thirty men rose to their feet. Major Hugh Martin stated that he had the names of six other men who were going to turn out, and others, not present, swelled the list to forty.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Mr. Fowler here stated that the prospects were bright for some good Rugby games during the prospective visit of H. M. S. "Hawkins," that the runabouts now on the China Station would undoubtedly provide some contests, and that it was entirely likely that Interport matches could be arranged with Hongkong and Tientsin if Shanghai players would "get together" and put the game on a firm foundation here.

An informal election was then held, at which Mr. Burkill was chosen to succeed himself as President. Capt. E. I. M. Barrett (now en route home from England) to be Vice President; Rev. C. E. Spencer to be Treasurer; Mr. A. P. Whelan to be Hon. Secretary and Messrs. R. L. Moncreith and T. W. Webber to be members of the Committee.

CAPTAIN NOT CHOSEN

The Captain and Vice Captain, on the motion of Mr. Fowler, are to be chosen by the members of the team after three games have been played. They will be members of the Committee, as will (ex officio) such Navy officers as may be in port from time to time, and interested in Rugby.

President Burkill announced that the grounds of the Shanghai Cricket Club had been secured for the Rugby season, and urged that the game be started as soon after the November race meeting as practicable.

MANY ENTRANTS SIGNED UP FOR POLICE SPORTS

Every indication points to a history-making affair when the Police Sports field meet and athletic carnival is staged on the Public Recreation Ground the last day of this month.

Police Sergeants F. A. Treacher and J. A. Quayle, the indefatigable Honorary Secretaries having the meet in charge, announced yesterday that the entry lists (with one exception) were exceptionally large, and filled with names which guarantee a series of exciting contests.

The exception aforementioned is the one-mile bicycle race, which only attracted three entrants. A decade ago this number would have been multiplied by ten, at least. But the day of the "bike" is past.

An added feature on the big program will be the invitational Interclub Football match, five-a-side, in which the following organisations will be represented: Race, Police, Shanghai Football Club, St. Xavier's, Electrical Dept., and Customs.

HANBURY SCHOOL HOLDS SPLENDID ATHLETIC MEET

On Saturday afternoon last the Hanbury Boys' School held their annual sports meeting in Hongkew Park. At first rain threatened to mar the proceedings and the punctuality of early arrivals was rewarded with a wetting. After tea the boys formed a square and the prizes were presented to the winners by Mrs. Anderson, wife of Mr. W. D. Anderson, who has been acting headmaster for the greater part of this year. The staff, the officials, the donors of prizes, the subscribers to the Prize Fund the groundsmen, and Mrs. Anderson were suitably thanked and vociferously cheered at the end.

General Li, Governor of Fukien, has promised $1,000 to help pay the expenses of the Foochow delegation to and from Amoy, and has also promised a silver cup for the winning school. The Commissioner of Education in Foochow has also donated a cup.

Splendid gold-plated, silver and bronze medals are to be given. A grandstand twice the size of our previous one is to be built, which will seat 1,000 people.

There is to be a baby show in connection with the meet. Three medals have been prepared for first, second and third prettiest babies—Chinese.

CREDIT DUE MR. TAN

Great credit is due Mr. Tan Ka-kee, who changed our South Fukien annual track meet to a large province-wide meet by the timely suggestion that he be responsible for a great share of the expenses of the meet, which will probably amount to about $2,500, including the entertainment of outside athletes.

Amoy furnished the best dash man at the last Far Eastern Games and also third best death-lion man from China. With the assistance of Foochow this year, which furnished a pole-vaulter for the last Far Eastern, we should furnish some records in this great meet which will be worthy of consideration by the Committee for the next Far Eastern Games, which are to be in Shanghai.

Moving pictures of the meet and of the baby show will probably be taken.

ELLIS KADOORIE SCHOOL HOLDS 8th ANNUAL MEET; YOUNGSTERS CHASE FAME

Chinese Pupils Of S.M.C. School Give Splendid Exhibitions Of Speed And Skill Before Enthusiastic Assemblage Of Admiring Relatives And Friends

(China Press Correspondence)

In splendid weather the Ellis Kadoorie Sports Club held its eighth annual meeting in the School Grounds on Saturday. A large and enthusiastic gathering of scholars, old boys and friends witnessed the proceedings.

The school compound was bedecked with flags, streamers and pennants, and the whole presented a very gay and animated appearance.

The program was carried out smoothly and successfully, the events keenly contested, and the times recorded very good. The "Nye Tsing Bae" prize (presented by an old boy) for the best all-round athlete was won by Sung Mur-tsoong, who gave an excellent display.

Another boy deserving special mention was Chu Voong-loong, who gave a splendid exhibition in the high jump. On the "lighter" side, the blindfold race, backwards race and obstacle race provided great amusement and called forth rounds of laughter and applause.

At the end the prizes were distributed to the successful competitors by Mrs. MacGillivray. Votes of thanks to Mrs. MacGillivray and to the teachers who worked to make the meeting a success, were recorded in the usual way.

The winners were as follows:
100 yards—1. Yih Foh-kwen;
2. Sung Mur-tsoong; 3. Wong Ming-yih.

This Tourney Must Be Played All Over

For the first time in the history of American lawn tennis the officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association have ordered a tournament replayed.

That is the essence of the suggestion from Julian S. Myrick, President of the association, as to the New York State championship for women which came to a deadlock between Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Margaret Grove in the final round on the courts of the New York Tennis Club last June.

The difficulty at that time arose over the scheduling of the time for the playing of the final round for the title. Miss Grove failed to appear on the first date named and Miss Wagner on the subsequent date selected by the Board of Governors of the club. All efforts to

CHEFOO EXPECTS TO HAVE BANNER FOOTBALL YEAR

Hopes To Down Hereditary Enemy, Weihaiwei, In Game For Shantung Title

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, October 15.—Football is always extremely popular in Chefoo and there are a large number of enthusiasts on the game in the port. Now that the last cricket match has been played off, soccer devotees are beginning to get on the trail for football.

A meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon, when a fine committee was elected in addition to the Captain, Vice Captain and Hon. Secretary. This coming season nothing is to be left to chance. Football is to be thoroughly well organized and the newly elected committee is determined to do all in its power to make it the best football year Chefoo has had.

C. I. M. GETS BUSY

The C. I. M. Boys' School is preparing for a busy season. Up till now, the school has not been playing soccer, as it has only just terminated the cricket season; but it is stated that the students will don the "shorts" this afternoon, and that the season will be commenced with games on Monday.

However, as the school is not in a position to play this coming Saturday, it has been decided to hold a trial game in which the players of two eleven will mix up. It is thought that this game will give the committee a chance to see what soccer talent there is in the port, and what prospects there are for getting a powerful team together.

EXPECT WEIHAIWEI

Weihaiwei owes Chefoo a visit. Last April we sent down an eleven which was defeated, though not disgraced. But it was not the strongest team Chefoo could have put into the field, and if Weihaiwei will return the compliment and come up here this season, there should be a veritable "battle of the giants."

As far as one can gather, Chefoo should possess, this coming season, the strongest soccer team it has had for several years. Whether the school can give the Settlement the close games it has done up till lately, it is too early to state, but local fans think it is doubtful.

TWO GOOD ARBITERS

Chefoo has two first class referees in Mr. A. F. Taylor, who trains the School Eleven, and the Port Chaplain.

Tomorrow week Chefoo is holding another gymkhana. Given good weather, this should prove a big attraction. Charges for admission are to be made and the whole of the profits are to be devoted to the Pamine Fund. Ponies are being taken out training each day for the gymkhana.

One of the popular features of an interesting program will be a ladies' race. Despite occasional north blows the weather is delightful. Tennis still attracts a goodly number, though the shortening days curtail the time for playing. All the athletes are reporting in good condition for the autumn sports.

Hongkong Cricket Dates Announced; High Hopes For Shanghai In Matches

Local Eleven, However, Will meet Stiff Competition From Both Crown Colony Team And Interporters From Singapore, Keen After Title

By "Boundary"

Shanghai's cricket team, which is scheduled to depart southward before long, to engage in a three-cornered, round-robin interport championship tournament with Singapore and Hongkong, on the latter's grounds, is going to have a pretty stiff tussle, if reports from the Crown Colony are worth the proverbial tinker's good-gracious.

Not only is the Hongkong eleven reported to be unusually formidable, especially at bat; but Singapore is said to have a bang-up crew of cricketers, all of whom are on their toes and eager for a try at the Far Eastern championship for 1920.

Nevertheless, it is the opinion that Shanghai will give a good account of herself in these matches; and that "Our Boys" will be found fighting it out with either the representatives of the Crown Colony or the Straits Settlements in the final game of the series.

STILL NEED BOWLERS

"Boundary" himself might with that certain men—notably bowlers like Billings and Dr. O'Hara—had been able to accompany the team to Hongkong; but he would not entertain the thought that a member of the team, as at present organized, should have been kept at home.

Even though the Shanghai XI might be less strong in its bowling than in other departments—which might easily turn out to be far from the truth—we may rest assured (at least, until the worst happens) that it is strong enough at the bat and in the field to more than make up the unproved deficiencies.

CAPT. BARRETT COMING

Capt. E. I. M. Barrett, by the way, is reported to be on his way home from England, where he has given Shanghai cricket another upward boost during his home-leave this past summer.

The doughty Captain, it was learned yesterday, will be back in Shanghai early in December, covered with honors won on English cricket fields. For a while this summer his name (and that of Shanghai) was in everybody's mouth back in the British Isles, thanks to his slashing hits against some of the best bowlers in the world.

Everybody will be glad to see Capt. Barrett back. The Rugby Club, which has been all too quiet during the last few years, has already elected him as V. P. and Anno Domini will not yet debar him from a prominent place in the front eight.

And so from rugger men,

Interport Tourney Cricket Schedules

Following are the dates announced for the playing of the Tri-port cricket matches to be played at Hongkong next month, for what will amount to the 1920 championship of the Far East:

November 4-5, November 8-9, November 10-11, November 12-13.

The draw for the games has not yet been reported. In one of the first three matches Hongkong will play Shanghai; in another, the Crown Colony will oppose Singapore; while, in the third, Shanghai and the Straits eleven will clash.

The fourth, and deciding match, will be between the best two teams, as decided by the previous matches.

British Cricketers Win Again In U.S.

Philadelphia, September 15.—Germanstown was outclassed by the Incongnit cricketers at Mannheim today, the Britons taking the Quakers into camp by nine wickets.

The local eleven made quite a showing for five wickets, getting a total of 99 but from then on could only bring up their total to 144 and were obliged to follow on.

ANNUNZIO REALM IN BAD CONDITION

Economic Situation Of Fiume Becoming Worse And Rome Refuses Financial Aid

Fiume, September 16 (Associated Press).—In making up the Cabinet of the Provisional Government of the "Italian Regency of Quarnero," which he proclaimed recently, Gabriele d'Annunzio has retained the title of Commander, which is permitted by the new Constitution "in time of extreme national danger." It is certain, also, that the poet will occupy the posts of Minister of Foreign Affairs and Minister of Defense himself, and will be supported by seven "Rettori," who normally will sit as a commission presided over by the Foreign Minister.

Since the resignation of the old National Council d'Annunzio has been working under the absolute power conferred upon him by the Councilors a year ago, the new Constitution not having yet gone into force. The Rettori will replace the National Council temporarily.

The economic situation of Fiume is becoming worse, and a delegation from the National Council which went to Rome recently returned with a discouraged state of mind, having failed to receive from Premier Giolitti any assurance of financial assistance to enable Fiume to keep up its resistance. Hitherto, the city has flourished on Red Cross supplies, cargoes of which d'Annunzio's vessels brought in at intervals. Even yet there is plenty of food in the city, but its finances and industry are in bad shape. The latest capture of the d'Annunzian forces, the Italian steamer Cogne, was of little or no use to them. D'Annunzio, it is learned, has asked 30,000 lire from the Government for the release of the steamer, the cargo of which is not wanted by the defenders.

No announcement has been made as yet as to the date when the new constitution will be put into effect. The National Council unanimously decided that the constitution could not be adopted without its submission to the people. The poet expressed his preference for the use of the "Roman" method of voting by acclamation at the Forum.

Matteo Pantaleoni, the noted Italian economist, well known in American economic circles, is now in Fiume to assist the poet in readjusting the serious financial situation of the city. Signor Pantaleoni, who offered his services to the poet, speaks enthusiastically of the new constitution. It is considered probable he will be appointed Rettore of Fiume.

D'Annunzio, in denying that he was carrying out military adventures on the islands of Cherso, Veglia and Arbe, in the Gulf of Quarnero, declared that if the islands wished to join the "Italian Regency of Quarnero," it must be done after a plebiscite.

The poet is most optimistic with regard to the recognition of the regency, although he does not expect any great power to recognize it immediately. He said he was most hopeful of Hungary, which he thought was ready to deal a blow at the Jugo-Slavs, and would recognize the regency at an early date.

He has made it known that he is ready to give all possible aid to the Albanians, and has already placed arms and ammunition at their disposal. It is reported, on the other hand, that two of his ships have been captured by the Jugo-Slavs.

Losses Reported In Middle Euphrates

(Reuter's Service) London, October 16.—A War Office communique dealing with Mesopotamia reports that the columns operating in the Middle Euphrates region have encountered considerable resistance, but the East Yorkshires, assisted by the 13th Rajputs, dislodged the enemy from a strong position with 30 casualties. The enemy lost very heavily.

NEW WATERFALLS FOUND

Discovered Within Forty Miles Of Portland, Ore., in the Cascades

Waterfalls that rival in beauty the most splendid cataracts of the Pacific Northwest have just been discovered on the western slope of the Cascade Mountains in Oregon, writes Horace E. Thomas in Popular Mechanics.

"Although within forty miles of Portland, a city of 260,000 people, no white man, so far as the records show, had ever seen them until a few weeks ago."

The falls lie almost in the center of the Bull Run Forest Reserve, set aside by the Government to protect Bull Run Lake and Bull Run River, the sources of Portland's water supply. It is this, of course, that accounts for the fact that the falls were not discovered long ago. The reserve is closed to all visitors except employees of the Government and of the city of Portland who may go there on business, a precaution taken to protect the timber of the watershed against fires that might be started by careless campers.

The reserve, which includes 222 square miles of mountains and forest, was set aside by Congress in 1892, and has been closely guarded ever since. It may be that in the early days some of the men who inspected the reserve came upon the falls, but this is unlikely, as they could hardly have failed to make a record of their discovery. The geological service made a survey of the district, but the falls do not show on their maps, although all other waterfalls are marked.

"The falls were found by three officials of the water bureau who had been traveling a new trail that leads from Bull Run Lake to the headworks of the water system, a distance of 21 miles. Up to the present time, the only trails between these places led along the mountain ridge, above Bull Run River. They decided to explore Falls Creek, a tributary of the Bull Run, which had been named for minor falls that were already well known. Penetrating with great difficulty up this stream, they came into a deep box canyon, and abruptly rounding a turn, were in full view of the lower of the unknown falls. They found that the stream at this place drops over a series of three shelves, two close together, and the other a quarter of a mile above them."

German Steel Works Making Great Profits

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 16.—The French newspapers point out that the Dortmund steel works produced a profit of 52,000,000 marks for the financial year just concluded, as compared with 8,000,000 marks for the preceding financial year, a fact which once again emphasizes the growing prosperity of German industry and the newspapers declare, proves the shallowness of the German complaints that the country is in the grip of dire economic distress.

Spanish Bishop Bars Sacramento To Women Who Are Scantily Dressed

Madrid, Aug. 28.—No woman will be permitted to enter church unless dressed "in Christian modesty," says a notice circulated through the diocese of Guadix by authority of Bishop Hernandez Mulas today.

Any woman wearing a dress which exposes her body and arms or who has a short skirt or transparent stockings will be barred from admission and also communion, while the clergy must refuse admission to any woman so attired, the notice declares.

Women disobeying these orders of the Bishop are forbidden to become members of church societies.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

came after the flood again had been adopted, he said. This consisted in distributing the seed grain to the head men of the various villages who distributed it on the understanding that it would be planted and that from the harvest an amount of grain equal to the quantity of seed distributed would be returned by the farmers.

CHINESE SUPPORT EFFORTS

Mr. Crane said this system had been found to work well three years ago and he expressed the belief that it would serve well in meeting the present crisis. The central committee, he said, on motion of Chinese members had appointed as director of activities Mr. G. E. Baker, head of the American Red Cross at Peking and he added that Mr. Baker was peculiarly well qualified by experience and through his known abilities as an organizer and executive to carry out the task assigned to him.

Mr. Crane said that Chinese of Peking were in accord with the general plan to carry out vast public improvements, adding that British, American and Chinese engineers long since have prepared extensive plans for highways, canals and other improvements work upon which is to start at once.

Mr. Crane went on to say that the American Red Cross at Peking had appropriated a large sum which is to be expended in a big work of improvement on highways and canals near Lingching. While this work is being done by the Red Cross Mr. Crane said the organization will look after the needs of aged inhabitants, children and others unable to work.

Concerning other agencies at work Mr. Crane said the British American Tobacco Company some time ago expended the sum of $100,000 for millet which had been taken into famine areas by B. A. T. agents all of whom had been enrolled in the work of giving relief and he said a similar work is being done by the Standard Oil Company. All the American engineers at Tientsin, he said, had volunteered their services.

Some reference was made by the Minister to huge quantities of food that have been moving out of China in the present time of need and this was amplified by a statement of Mr. Nichols who said that 60,000 tons of flour now are being shipped to London.

APPEAL MADE FOR SHENSI

Mr. Crane spoke highly of the spirit with which the relief work is being carried out at Peking saying from the first all questions of politics had been laid aside and that perfect harmony had been brought about. All engaged in the effort, he asserted, are working hard and effectively and he added he hoped this would prove to be an object lesson to the various cliques of Chinese throughout the country.

In reply to a question he said that the Chinese Government had said it would give any thing it could give to aid the work.

No appropriations were voted at yesterday's meeting, but a moving appeal for immediate aid was made to the committee by Mr. C. Yen, representing the Shensi Relief Committee who said thousands in Shensi, preyed upon by the numerous soldiers and bandits in the province, and in the grip of the famine were dying of starvation.

A number of schemes to give greater publicity to the work of the famine relief were discussed and a publicity committee composed of Messrs. Chun Bing-hin, J. Lo Pa Hong and Arthur West was appointed.

It was announced that the famous quintet of Russian musicians will give a series of concerts in aid of the famine relief fund. These artists have been brought to Shanghai by Doctor Skidelski of Harbin after having appeared at Peking and at Tientsin. Mr. P. B. Eselievitch is the manager of this organization.

INTEREST IN OUTPORTS

Word from outports and interior towns indicates very active interest in the famine fund, with substantial amounts of money being subscribed by both foreigners and Chinese.

Abstention from the eating of meat for a two months' period is a part of the Soochow University Students' Association program for the raising of funds to aid the stricken districts. It is estimated that by this plan a sum amounting to about $500 will be saved and turned over to the Famine Relief Fund. Previously the Students' Association had voted an assessment of one dollar, minimum, for each member and various individuals had made voluntary contributions. Following the students' action in the matter of the assessment and the plan to abstain from meat they circulated a petition among the faculty, stating what had been done and inviting additional contributions, which were readily made.

FUND AT CHEFOO

The Chefoo local committee of the Famine Fund has received the sum of $200 as the result of a sale of work held last Saturday by Mrs. MacMillan. The sale was conducted on the grounds of Mrs. MacMillan's home and large crowds their staffs for service, with this commission.

LIST IS GIVEN

A tentative preliminary survey of highway, railroad, canal and river improvements is appended to the recommendations, with estimated figures on the cost of the work and the number of workers which the various projects would support. Included in this are the proposal of a flood outlet channel for the Chin Lung Wah Ho, at an estimated cost of $30,000, providing support for 30,000 persons for 200 days; the building of new outlets for the Yung Ting Ho and Putu Ho, at an estimated cost of $2,200,000, providing support for 300,000 persons; improvement work on the Grand Canal estimated at two million and a half and supporting 250,000 persons; work on the Machang-Shih Chia Chuang and Shuntelufu-Techow, railways which would provide support for 122,000 persons and work on the Tientsin-Pootungfu, Tientsin-Peking and Kaifengfu-Tientsin highways which would care for the needs of about 175,000 persons for the 200 estimated days. Improvement and development work of various kinds in Chihli province is outlined in addition which would support 1,340,000 persons.

The committee drawing up the suggestions points out that the cost of the works recommended may rise above the estimates owing to the inefficiency of famine labor and also points out that, inasmuch as the projected work would provide relief for but a portion of the suffering people, additional extensive relief measures must be instituted without delay. Immediate action is urged on account of the near approach of winter. The committee signs the recommendations as composed of Messrs. Yang Pao-ling, S. C. Thomas, Sze T. H. Wiggins, H. B. Merriak, R. D. Goodrich, O. J. Todd and H. A. Raider, chairman.

CATHOLIC MISSION REPORTS

FROM SOUTH WEST CHILI

The following is a report on the situation caused by the famine in the Vicariate of south-west Chihli, dated Cheng-tung-fu, September 14, 1920. The report was received yesterday by the Procure des Lazaristes.

1.—The Catholic Mission of south-west Chihli comprises sub-prefectures. The principal productions of the country are grain, millet, kao-liang and cotton. There are no industrial undertakings and as a consequence the inhabitants live on the result of their harvest.

Generally speaking the eastern part of the Vicariate is rather fertile provided rain prevents the ground from becoming too dry but, on the other hand, owing to the proximity of the mountains it happens that the harvest is completely swept away, during heavy rainfalls which cause the rivers to overflow and ravage everything around them. The western part is mountainous and the inhabitants there generally live from hand to mouth as they are not able to put anything aside in spite of their parsimony and their hard work.

II.—The terrible inundation which occurred three years ago devastated the entire country and reduced to nothing all the harvest thus causing a misery without limit. The poor people still remember this calamity and the assistance which was then given them by various benevolent committees. The two following years did not suffice to better the economical situation of the country. Last year the rain was insufficient and the harvest very meagre.

This year on account of the draught the harvest of corn has been almost nil because it has either not rained at all or very little since July, 1918; as a consequence in certain places the peasants have not even harvested as much as they have sown.

SUFFER FROM STARVATION

Also the harvest crop is nil or almost so, in any case in most places. Some of these poor people have sown different kinds of grain as often as three times but nevertheless they have obtained no harvest. The misery in which the peasants now live is therefore more cruel than that experienced three years ago because it must be remembered that then the harvest in Shansi was abundant and the transportation facilitated by kindness on the part of the Railway Companies. On the other hand this year the harvest in Shansi is not abundant and the price of grain has doubled. As a consequence the inhabitants die from starvation.

The draught is reinforced by another calamity: the grasshoppers. In some places the grasshoppers have devoured what little harvest it was hoped to be able to gather.

TALE OF MISSIONARY

A missionary who has witnessed this plague writes me as follows: "I have just come from... It is terrible! At the moment of the harvest the poor people have not been able to gather anything whatever. Their Autumn harvest which seemed passably good has been devoured by the grasshoppers. Nothing is left in the fields with the exception of the stems of the millet which make a sad appearance without leaves nor grain and they, of course, millions of millions of grasshoppers, of wheel-barrow loaded with everything, belonging to these people who have abandoned their homesteads; entire villages emigrate.

One sees people of every age: poor mothers carrying or leading their children who cry from hunger, poor old men and women (I have seen one old woman of eighty) are carried by their children on wheel-barrow. And it is every day that one sees this sad stream of human beings. It is simply heart-rending.

SEVERE WINTER FORECAST

The poor people have chased the grasshoppers during about 20 days but without result; besides, they have gone about it in a deplorable manner being content with pushing the grasshoppers away in front of them. The mandarin has done everything possible: for more than three weeks he has been everywhere hiring men by the hundred to chase the grasshoppers and placing policemen in every village reached by the plague so as to superintend the work, but everything was of no avail.

Finally seeing themselves absolutely inundated with grasshoppers the people have lost courage and given up completely. And one may now see these people eating sparingly their harvest which they have been forced to cut while still green and such wild plants which they are able to find either in the fields or in the mountains. And we are only in Autumn; what will Winter be like?

LAND IS CHEAP

It will be a most terrible famine which may already be foreseen by the actual price demanded for grain. Land which formerly was worth $24 to $30 is now offered at $5 and even then no buyer is coming forward. If they want to borrow money they cannot find anybody willing to lend them.

The famine is not confined to one or two villages. It is a question of an entire region. As a consequence it is incessant clamor for help, for permission to work without payment, requests to sell women and children to the Sisters. I cannot of course give everyone satisfaction. What will the end be?

Another Missionary writes regarding the famine in his district: "Many poor people have sold everything they possessed at ridiculously low prices and have set out for Shansi but when they arrived at the mountain passes they were stopped because also in Shansi the harvest is not good this year either and people came streaming over there from everywhere and in much too large number. Now these people are coming back sad, starved and not finding anything whatever in their homesteads. What can be done? Abundant and immediate help is necessary."

ENTIRE VILLAGES EMIGRATE

Another writes from Shantung: "The poor, more especially the women, come to my house asking for assistance; with pangs of the heart not to be able to do more, I give all I can to still their hunger. As short ago as yesterday the whole road from the North Gate to the Hospital of the Sisters was nothing but a mass create work either by repairing the streets in the towns, by dredging the rivers or by making canals for irrigation purposes or in any other manner, in short to provide work for all these people who have nothing to do and who die from starvation; (4) that the Government grant exemption from taxes during this year in the places ruined by the famine.

CARES FOR CHILDREN

It will furthermore be necessary for the Committee to find in the districts concerned conscientious and honest people who could manage the distribution of the grain. It would perhaps also be possible to make economical public kitchens in all the big places where everyone could come and get one meal per day. But the old people and the children are those who are most worthy of compassion and who ought to be saved at any price.

We are informed that everywhere children are deposited at the doors of the Missionaries' residences and the Missionaries take the children and confide them to wet nurses whom we must pay for looking after the little ones; but I foresee the time when the Mission can no longer suffice for this work. Here alone we have more than 100 boys whom we give food and clothing during the Winter and Spring. At the moment we are occupied with arranging some more houses to receive other boys. The Missionaries everywhere do exactly the same. The Sisters here have already more than 1,500 refugees, old people, women and children, without taking into consideration the children cared for by La Sainte Enfance, but to do all that we are in need of funds and we are reckoning with the aid which you will give us so as to help so many unfortunate people.

Attractions and exhibits from China for the approaching 1921 Carnival to be held at Manila from January 29 to February 6 are invited in a cable that has been addressed to the American Consul-General here by the Director-General of the Philippine Carnival. The message says: "Please ascertain and advise by cable what suitable carnival attractions available in that locality for Philippine 1921 Carnival and under what terms they can be secured."

Mr. M. F. Perkins, Acting American Consul-General, suggests in connection with this message that those interested in the Carnival or those who may wish to provide attractions should communicate with the American Consulate.

Physical Training Has Good Results In Soochow School

(Special To THE CHINA PRESS)

Soochow, October 15.—The Soochow Missionary Association held its first meeting of the year 1920-21 yesterday afternoon. The Association was entertained at tea by Mesdames Dyson and Smart, after which Mr. Willard L. Nash, Physical Director of Soochow University, read a very interesting and instructive paper on "The Physical Education of Chinese Students."

In preparing this paper Mr. Nash used the records of the University, kept for the past seven years, of the physical and medical examination of each and every student at the time of his matriculation. Mr. Nash, with three students to assist him, spent the whole of the summer working through these records, working out averages for the height, weight, chest measurement, leg and arm circumference, lung expansion, etc. The records of individual students who have remained in the school throughout their Middle School and College courses, and a comparison of the measurements and general physical conditions from year to year, indicate very clearly that great benefit has accrued to the students of the University from compulsory athletics and physical exercise. Another important result of these annual examinations is keeping out of the school any infectious diseases.

Oak has long been known as a wood of sterling qualities. The stoutest vessels which ever put to sea were made from English Oak; some of them are still to be seen lying at moorings, where they have lain for a century or more, unwanted, as out of date and dilapidated. The timber in them, however, is as good as the day when it was hewn from its forest home.

It is, then, a wood which will stand all the wear and rough knocks which either you, your children or your grand-children will be able to give to it, and then be a pleasure to look upon.

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

To Foreign Exporters

GENTLEMAN,
As you know, the members of our Association by their contracts for delivery of Liquid Egg and Liquid Yolk are at present responsible for good quality of goods up to within four months from date of shipment from Shanghai.
During the past so many claims have been made upon our members as to had quality of Liquid Egg and Liquid Yolk, though shipped in good condition from Shanghai, that they lost large sums in paying such claims; in many cases, claims were double the contract price.
As we do not care to go into the question as to whether the large increase in the number and amount of claims made may not have some relation to violent fluctuations in exchange and fall in prices, the Association, on behalf of its members, instruct me to inform exporters that on all contracts for goods to be delivered on or after January 1st, 1921, no claim will be recognized by the sellers on goods which have been accepted by the buyers prior to shipment.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific prevention

must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other

affections such as tooth-ache, dental

periostitis, osteo-periostitis, necro-

sis of the jaw, etc., may arise.

During the process of ingestion,

there are settled on the teeth, some

deposits of mineral and organic

matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing

the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the

teeth will become elongated and

movable and will, by degrees,

absorb away the enamel, leading

ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar

is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental

instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving

their teeth at an annual subscrip-

The Coal Miners' Strike

THE gravest news that has come over the wires since the March, 1918, drive of the Germans in France is that which we print today from England. The million coal miners of Great Brittain have walked out on strike.
One great class of producers has arrayed itself against the rest of society at a time when increased production, and especially increased coal production, is the most urgent necessity, the most vital problem confronting civilization. For only by increased production is the issue imposed by the high cost of living to be solved.There is the further threat of a strike by the railwaymen. The situation indeed could not be blacker; not merely because of the miners' strike and the menace
of other strikes, but because of the political potentialities which are involved.What are these powerful unions
of the working classes planning to do? They are obviously unwilling to listen to reason. Premier Lloyd George beet as he is
by international difficulties of the most alarming description, has worked day and night for the last fortnight to avert this strike.
He has failed to avert it but the blame for the failure does not attach to him. The onus for what comes after must rest upon the miners who, by an overwhelming
vote, and against the advice of many of their most trusted leaders, have voted three to one for the strike.As Mr. Lloyd George put it:
"In facing the trials which the decision of your conference has
today imposed upon our people,
the country will doubtless be fortified in its determination to endure by the fact that the proposals of its elected Government received the support of the most responsible and experienced minds within the Miners Federation."Other despatches indicate that Great Britain, as its Premier predicted, is "determined to endure," and has been fortified in this determination by the criminal stubbornness of the miners.
Volunteers are appearing from all other walks of life to take
the places vacated by the miners.
And this general revelation of public opinion may bring the miners to their senses and avert
a general disaster. Only a year or so ago the Governor of Kansas
broke up a strike of coal miners
by calling for volunteers to work
the mines. And at nearly the same time volunteers broke up
the railwaymen's strike in England. In the present instance
however, the outcome is not so certain because this strike is almost wholly political. It is a question of all the rest of society
uniting to defend itself against the attack of a particular and largely ignorant class.

A 'Just Peace'

(New York Times)

The well-known French economist, Paphaël-Georges Levy, has recently published a volume, "La Juste Paix," in which he goes deeply into the question of German reparation. First of all, he addresses himself to the refutation of Mr. Keynes. The widely read book of that Englishman
the Frenchman attacks for both its strange attitude toward the whole question of peace with Germany and for many mistakes
in the handling of the industrial and financial material. But this is now an old story.The task upon which Mr. Levy expends his main strength is twofold. He gives a vivid account of what Germany ought to pay. He then makes a searching analysis of what Germany is able to pay. From both branches of his argument he concludes that the terms imposed upon Germany
by the Treaty of Versailles were,
in fact, moderate, all things considered; that the peace was
"just," and that the Allies can do no less than compel the defeated Germans to carry out the agreements which their Government has signed.In some closely packed pages
Mr. Levy makes a minute study of the damage and destruction
wrought by the Germans in the devastated areas of France. He goes over the region city by city,
village by village, almost factory
by factory. It is a pitiful and appalling recital. All this ravage
was no mere incident or accident
of war. It was deliberately planned and remorselessly carried out, and the motive and intent
were not concealed. Germany intended hopelessly to cripple France economically. She wished brutally to destroy an industrial competitor. And in order to do this she brought on a whole organized body of engineers and miners and specialists to devise
the best means of wrecking the great manufacturing region of France. Mills were gutted. Machinery was smashed or stolen.Mines were made unworkable.
And the purpose was openly avowed. French industry was to be hamstringed. The foreign markets which France had won
were henceforth to belong to the Germans. "With this machine,"
said a German engineer to a French manufacturer, standing in the midst of his ruined work,
"you got away from us orders in Rumania. Hereafter they will be at our disposal."One cannot read again the sordid and barbarous details
without a flush of indignation at the unheard-of German methods of waging war. It was not really war, this devastation and pillage.
It was ferocious greed. It was a coldly calculated and devilishly
executed plan of winning a permanent economic advantage over France, quite aside from the direct and immediate results of the war. Germany called up all her technical skill, all her scientific thoroughness, to make sure of dealing the most deadly wounds possible to industrial France. A similar work of disablement was done by her in Belgium, in Rumania, in Italy. Shall she not now make good the devastation?
Having set out to obtain wickedly
an unfair economic advantage, is she to be let off paying for the mischiefs she did, on the plea that her own economic life must in no way, or even temporarily, be injured? These questions have only to be stated to be self-answered.The total bill of damages which might properly be charged to Germany Mr. Levy admits she could not possibly pay. It is too triflingly large. But he insists that German wealth and recuperative powers will be able to meet the indemnities set down in the Treaty of Versailles, especially as they are to be adjusted by the Reparations Commission. Germany is now pleading poverty.
She did not before the war. Then her statisticians and statesmen
were boasting of her enormous
and inexhaustible resources. Mr.
Levy quotes the figures and estimates of several German authorities, published prior to 1914. He makes opposite use of the volume
written by none other than Helferich in 1913, in which there was an elaborate conspectus of German industrial and commercial expansion, with the colossal figures for Germany's yearly income and total wealth. Without making a wearisome citation of the details, it is enough to say
they amply bear out the assertion of Professor Taussig, at the meeting of the American Economic Association last year, that while the financial burden placed upon Germany by the Versailles Treaty is heavy, it is not beyond her power to carry it.The Germans have, in fact,
begun the work of reparation.
Some of the property sneak-thiev-
ed from France has been restored. Coal is being delivered. But the issue of indemnity bonds is yet to be made. There is no doubt that to avoid this Germany will resort to every shift. She is asking the world to pity her.
But she must not be let off from doing all that it is within her power to do to make good the terrible losses which she inflicted.As a help to right sentiment on this subject, and also to an understanding of the real financial problems involved, Mr. Levy's book is to be welcomed.

Why France Recognizes And Aids Wrangel

Editor Of Le Journal Says His Country Does Not Fear Internal Bolshevism And Acts To Protect Treaty--Support Of Poland And Wrangel Linked In Interpretation
Of Latest Moves

(New York Times)

Why does France dare to give military aid to oppose Bolshevism
when England does not dare? Why can France handle her labor demonstrations? Is France less permeated with Bolshevism, or is the French workman just more level-headed? These questions are the very essence of the present European news.Etienne Grosclaude, editor of Le Journal in Paris, is in New York, and he has served up a sauce composed of these exact ingredients--a sauce which goes far
to make the Polish and the South Russian events more digestible if not more palatable. According to his judgment, France need not fear internal Bolshevism. Her national character of patient
laboriousness and her own national experiments in radicalism, now
many years past, make her a nation apart in the present experimental condition of the modern world."France is a country very much advanced socially," he explains.
"France did her experimenting a hundred years ago, and France
has learned that social progress
does not consist in the destruction of the present social order, but in an improvement based on reasoning and free discussion, not through destructive brutality. The revolutionary attempts of last year
and of May of the present year
have utterly failed because of the common sense of the working population, which is too much enlightened to misunderstand its real interests and too experienced to jeopardise these interests by trusting to the specious promises of politicians. Even these radical politicians of ours, little as they are to be trusted, are not anarchists or Bolshevists. They do not pretend to be anything but Socialists. Although, to be sure,
they are capable of creating civil disorder, they claim to be promoting socialism which is founded on order."Bolshevism, he goes on to explain, is an "obsession of destruction," similar to that of the Nihilists of other days. "Bolshevism," he adds, "is a condition which will logically make an appeal to the German mind in this their moment
of hesitancy against all the world.
In this moment when they are desperate because of their own
bloody deception of themselves.""But not the least appeal does this gospel of destruction make to the popular soul of France, passionately attached to patient labor,
to constructive work, and to the conservation of those hard-earned savings which every Frenchman
looks forward to again possessing.
At heart the Frenchman is deeply pacifist, until some one tries to take his property from him. Then he will defend himself furiously.
He has no more taste for civil war
than for foreign war, and if famine
and misery do not make him lose
his head his practical sense will save him from any wildness of action.""This practical, realist French laborer knows as well as do the economists that incessant and long strikes will unavoidably bring misery to him. And he has no sympathy with the Lenin school of thought that would bring about misery so that there may be a revolution.""The most advanced of our Socialist leaders, in short, have come out squarely against Bolshevism.
Jouhaux and Dumoulin and Bil-
lard, the most popular man of the railroad class, have declared in mass meetings. "It is our duty to let the people know that Bolshevism is the enemy of socialism. It is necessary to fight against it."And so, because France is a united nation against Bolshevism, France dares to furnish Generals
and munitions to Poland and recognition to Wrangel; the fact that the old Russian Government owes money to the large majority of French citizens is not, according to Mr. Grosclaude, a determining factor in the French aid which is being given against Soviet Russia."It is our skin that we are trying to save, and not our money,"
he explains. "I firmly believe that the French people have long since considered as lost the funds which they invested in Russia. The Frenchman has charged the account to profit and loss. A Frenchman is usually timid when it comes to investing his money. But when once this investment is made
he does not run after his funds.
He prefers to 'write it off.' He is not inclined to throw good money
after bad. He is certainly not disposed to make new sacrifices in men as well as in cash because of the investments made in Russia.""No, France is fighting for the defense of the Peace Treaty-- which is our national skin. And this fight we will make, even to the place where nobody wants to go."An' so Bill, are we darn
'earted?

No-o-o-o!

Oping that we can still keep

the 'ome fires burnin'!

Yours,

ALF.

"hough we make this fight alone--
just as we have had to make it alone since the English people
failed to arrive at the understanding that their vital interests also
are engaged in this conflict no less seriously than ours. This treaty, although far from allowing us the reparation that was due us, we will defend whenever and where-ever we find evidence of German
bad faith.""Evidence of that bad faith
France finds in the present Bolshe-vist aggression against Poland.
The Bolshevik army has for a long while been under the influence of German officers. It is dominated and permeated by German officers.
And these German officers are violating the treaty which Germany signed at Versailles. The French officers in the Polish army,
on the other hand, are safeguarding that treaty."M. Grosclaude goes on to clarify just what has been the help which France has given to Poland. "It is not so much through the fighters which France has lent to that country," he says, "as through the salutary influence exercised on Poland's high command after the arrival of General Weygand. The primary cause of Polish defeat in the last campaign was the inconsistency of its command. This is an incontestable fact. That command was more lacking in authority than it was lacking in experience. This situation was intensified by misunderstandings between the chiefs and by party
squabbles.""Then came General Weygand,
who had learned and practiced victorious strategy in the school of Marshal Foch, whose most intimate collaborator he had been from the beginning of the war till its end. The decisive effect was to make the staff recognise a supreme direction. General Weygand was extremely tactful and used great discretion in order to have his supreme direction wholeheartedly
accepted. He had also the wisdom to exercise the functions of Generalissimo, without claiming the title of supreme director for himself."The recent deliveries of artillery supplies and munitions were
the next point taken up by M.
Grosclaude. "These first deliveries, sent openly in the name of the 'Entente,' appear to have arrived just at the proper time to furnish the Polish army with enough munitions to answer the heavy artillery, secretly and abundantly furnished by Germany despite the Peace Treaty."

Splendors Of Warsaw

Some picturesque anecdotes
concerning Warsaw, at present
the center of world attention, its progress in science, arts and letters, is contained in a recent bulletin of The National Geographic Society."Warsaw," says the bulletin, "is to Poland what Paris is to France.
No other people, in all the world's history, has borne oppression so bravely and gloriously as the Poles, except the Jews. The vividly, the gayety, and the quick wit of Warsaw's people is a constant reminder of Paris.
All this, too, in a city where the most gruesome tragedies have stalked.""As recently as the years of our own Civil War the Russian Army mowed down thousands of men and women as they knelt in the snow, singing their national anthem. Deportations are an old story in Warsaw, every effort at nationalisation was followed by slaughter, and hundreds marched
the long trail to Siberian exile.""But Poland's spirit," continues the bulletin, "became a synonym for the indomitable.
The scenes of the Russianifica-tion of Poland have been described as the process of keeping 12,000,000
Poles pinned to Russia by bayonets. Politically non-existent,
for even Poland's name was extinguished from all official Russian records, the pre-war Warsaw vied
with world capitals in science,
particularly medicine, in manufacturing, in trade, and in literature.""Though Warsaw betrayed
none of the grimness characteristic of Russian cities, reminders of her bygone glories and tragedies
were to be found even before the World War restored her autocracy. In the Lazienki Gardens
is a monument to John Sobieski,
who stemmed the advance of the Turks in Europe, a figure as picturesque as Paderewski, who now
sees his land a barrier to Bolshevism's westward spread. It was in 1683 that a Turkish force had thrown itself in crescent formation around Vienna. The encampment was no less threatening because it resembled a circus rather than a siege, with its herds of camels and luxurious tents and baths and parrots within and fountains without.""Mighty events often hinge on slender circumstances. Sobieski hesitated because Leopold, Austria's Emperor, first declined to address him as 'His Majesty.'
But Sobieski's hesitation is said
to have vanished when he learned that the French Ambassador had written to Louis XIV., who rather hoped for the worst for Austria, 'Don't trouble yourself.
Sobieski is too fat to sit on a horse and fight.' The 'fat man'
rode his charger into the thick
of the fight, helping him his way

How Drawing Powers Of Earth And Moon Would Compare In A Tugging Match And How Force Of Gravitation Varies Among Planets

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Noted Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"If it were possible for a body to go half way between the earth and moon would it be drawn to the moon?"—B.

No. At a point half-way between the earth and the moon the attraction of the earth would be about eighty-one times as great as the attraction of the moon. The reason for this is that the earth has eighty-one times as much mass, or matter, as the moon, and the attraction of gravity varies directly as the mass.

If you could stick the earth and the moon on opposite ends of a rod as long as the distance between their centers, about 239,000 miles, and then try to make the rod balance even, you would be unable to find a place to put the fulcrum, because the balancing point or center of gravity would be about 1,100 miles deep in the earth, on the line from its center to the center of the moon.

HOW WEIGHT IS FIXED

The point can only be found by calculation, and astronomers make use of this method of virtual balancing in order to ascertain the relative masses, or weights, of the earth and moon. For this purpose they are compelled to call in the aid of the sun. The sun attracts both the earth and the moon, and as they revolve around one another once every month, the attraction of the sun causes their motion to be performed about their common center of gravity which, as we have just seen, lies below the earth's surface.

By careful observation it is possible to detect the angular displacement of the sun due to the motion of the earth around the earth-moon center of gravity, and with that as a basis to calculate the position of that center inside the earth. The earth, by virtue of its superior force, swings the moon monthly around a circuit of about 750,000 miles, while the moon makes the center of the earth describe a circuit of about 9,000 miles in the same time. They are like unequal partners in a dance, a 250-pound man, for instance, hardly more than turning on his heels while swinging a little girl in a circle a yard or two in diameter.

But, while the attraction of the earth upon a body situated halfway between it and the moon would be eighty-one times as great as the moon's attraction upon the same body, yet, owing to another principle of the law of gravitation, it is easy to find, by calculation, a point between the earth and the moon where their attractions would be equal, and beyond which the moon's attraction would exceed the earth's.

The principle referred to is that the force of gravitation varies in the ratio of the mass to the square of the distance, the mass being taken directly and the square of the distance inversely. How shall we apply this to the case of the moon and the earth? We do it as follows:

At equal distance, whatever that distance may be, the earth always has, by virtue of its superior mass, an advantage in the ratio of 81 to 1. Now, suppose the distance of the body is made nine times as far from the earth as from the moon. Then the earth's attraction upon it will be represented by the earth's mass, 81, divided by the square of 9, which is 81. The quotient is 1. At the same time the moon will have gained by decrease of distance while the earth was losing by increase of distance, and the moon's attraction on the body will now be represented by its mass 1-81 multiplied by 81, the quotient, as before, being 1.

Thus we see that at a point nine times as far from the earth as from the moon their attractions must be equal. At any point nearer than that to moon, the moon's attraction would exceed the earth's.

Where is the point of equal attraction situated? The mean distance between the earth and the moon is 238,860 miles. Divide this into ten parts, putting nine of them on the side of the earth and one on the side of the moon, and we have the distance from the moon 23,886 miles, and from the earth 214,974 miles. But these distances are calculated from the centers of the earth and the moon. Subtracting the radii, we find that the distance from the moon's surface is 22,866 miles, and from the surface of the earth 212,974 miles. These are all approximate figures, but near enough for our purpose.

SUN'S GREATEST ATTRACTION

In a similar way the point can be found where the earth's and the sun's attraction would be equal. You may be surprised to learn that it is situated only about 161,000 miles from the earth. This is due to the tremendous superiority of the sun in mass, which is in the ratio of 322,000 to 1. Since the moon's distance greatly exceeds 161,000 miles, it is evident that the sun's attraction on the moon is greater than the earth's.

In fact it is more than twice as great. This may be another subject for surprise, since you know that the moon remains near the earth, notwithstanding the sun's great attraction—but that is another question.

Price Advances Began Long Ago

While prices of foods and all essentials have been advancing since 1914 "by leaps and bounds," increases in price are not new. For more than 1,000 years prices have been going up and, for the most part, so have wages.

In the middle of the thirteenth century eggs were 2 cents a dozen and hens cost 2 cents. Squabs were 6 cents a dozen and butter 2 cents a pound.

By the sixteenth century prices of horses and oxen had risen 300 percent, agricultural machinery had doubled in price and butter had gone to 6 cents a pound, beef and pork to 1 cent a pound and sugar to 27 cents a pound.

In the eighteenth century chickens had advanced to 31 cents each, butter to 12 cents a pound, cheese to 5 cents per pound and milk to 1 cent a pint.

A Cambridge student records in his diary that he paid $1.91 for two pairs of shoes and repairs. In spite of these low prices, however, it was just as hard to buy the necessities of life as it is today, because the income of the people was equally small.

The workman who saved half his wages when he got 8 cents a day was ahead of the game, just as he is today.

American financiers which falls due on October 1.

"Some newspapers," he says, "represent France coming, hat in hand, to request more money when the hour has arrived for her to reimburse her creditors. This is not the case, for it is certainly not abnormal in the business world to renew certain loans under equitable conditions when the debtor is solvent and the creditor has confidence. The Anglo-French loan is $500,000,000. Of this amount France owes $250,000,000, which was provided by American financiers. The loan is due and France will pay her share, no matter what sacrifices she has to make."

"But one of the difficulties encountered comes from the difference in exchange. Today we must pay almost three times as many francs as we received. This is hard on us. It is a painful obligation, and we are not trying to back out. But we do want our creditors to consider with us whether it might not be advantageous to both sides to postpone a part of the payment under equitable conditions. When willingness and good faith are assured on both sides, it is only the question of material possibility which counts."

"This is just the problem that is being considered at present, and already the greatest desire has been shown to strike on a solution which will be mutually advantageous to the two parties whose business interests are becoming closer each day. It is on the business ground that we are working today. This does not spoil the friendship or the fine sentiment existing between two countries. On the contrary, business makes friendship easier and safer."

First American Horse
Only 16 Inches High

The first horse that roamed the plains of America was just sixteen inches high, according to Prof. Henry Fairhead Osborn, considered the most eminent authority on the subject.

Thousands of these horses grazed together, some 2,000,000 years ago, throughout America's vast West.

The first horses may have had five toes, the professor says, but the fossils of the earliest horses, found in the Bad Lands, have but four toes. Later the horse lost another toe, and today he is walking on the nail of what was once his middle toe.

If the leg of the present day horse is dissected there will be found two splinters of bone above the hoof, on either side of his leg, beneath the flesh.

While the horse first grazed in America, the species died out here, and our modern horses are descended from old world stock. The first of them to arrive in America were brought to Mexico by the Spanish conquerors, and caused great fright to the people of Montezuma, who thought they were supernatural monsters.
